

Chapter 1: The adventure

It used to be a happy village. One bright morning a baby bull was born. All the inhabitants rushed to the stable, excited to meet the new baby. Father Bull did not want to overwhelm the little one, so he asked everyone to be patient. After two days had passed, the little bull left the stable with his Father and was greeted by all the animals of the village.

Little Bull was very shy and hid behind Father Bull. Father Bull smiled and said, "Don't be afraid! All these animals will be your friends."

The animals greeted the little bull and asked him what his name was. Father Bull replied,

"His name is MOON, because he was born during a full moon."

Moon played in the pasture every day with the other animals. He was a very curious and adventurous little bull. On a bright day, playing and chasing butterflies across pastures, meadows and fields of flowers, Moon got further and further away from the farm where he lived. He chased the butterflies all the way to the forest line.

Moon had never been so far away from home. Or so close to the forest. He had never seen anything like it before! Interested but cautious, he entered the forest. This was totally exciting and thrilling for him. He walked deeper into the forest, losing track of where he was, he walked until he could no longer see the sun. He heard a loud roar from the depths of the forest.

Frightened, but mustering just enough courage, he called out,

"Hello!?"

The forest stood silent, and the little bull received no reply.

The forest was getting darker and colder as night approached. Moon tried to find his way home. He heard small drops falling on the leaves. The wind whistled through the tree tops rustling the leaves as it grew stronger. A storm was approaching.

Moon looked for shelter to protect himself from the coming storm. He found an old wooden cabin, a perfect shelter for the time being.

But the rain and wind were getting stronger and stronger and this old wooden cabin was in danger of collapsing. Moon recognized the danger and left his shelter running out into the storm. Falling branches and uprooted trees fell across his path. Poor visibility and surrounding chaos prevented Moon from noticing a pit in the middle of the path, he lost his footing and fell into it. A heavy broken branch fell on top of him, pinning him down.

Moon was in danger of drowning as the heavy rain was quickly filling the pit with water. He called out for help! But no one could hear him. All of a sudden, a figure appeared above! Moon could not clearly see who or what it was. But he desperately called out for help!

The figure descended. It was unlike anything Moon had seen before! The mysterious figure started to spin in a circle, faster and faster, causing a whirlwind that lifted the heavy branch. Moon was now free, and could escape from the pit.

The stranger called to Moon advising him to follow. And so, together they trekked into the mountains towards a cave where they would be safe. Since the mysterious figure saved him, Moon followed without hesitation or fear.

The storm raged on, but Moon and his saviour, having reached the cave, were safe inside. The stranger told Moon to rest. The cave would protect them from the storm and the stranger would protect them from everything else.

Moon realized he still did not know who rescued him, and so he asked the figure what his name was.

The stranger replied, "I'm a ghost and my name is Bitcoin! Sleep now, we shall talk more tomorrow!"

The rest of the night passed uneventfully and the next morning Moon woke up refreshed.

There was no sign of Bitcoin!

Moon decided to take a look outside. The sun was shining down on a beautiful landscape that stretched as far as his eyes could see. He even saw his village out in the distance! Happy to see his village, Moon decided to go home. But he didn't know the way through the forest. He worried that he would get lost in the forest. He wondered if Bitcoin, the strange “ghost”, could help him once more?

Just as he was about to leave when Bitcoin appeared wishing him a good morning. Moon happily greeted Bitcoin relieved that he had not imagined the events of last night. Bitcoin asked Moon what he was doing alone in the forest.

Moon replied, "I was playing and got lost in the forest! And when I wanted to go back home, the storm started. You know the rest!"

Bitcoin replied, "Hmm, yes! You were very lucky I came across you as I did. I can help you get home."

Moon was overjoyed that Bitcoin wanted to help him! They set off towards the village without a moment's hesitation. Along the way, Moon wanted to know what kind of ghost Bitcoin was.

Bitcoin answered: "Well, I am a ghost! I consist of pure energy! The best part is, only those who believe in me can see me! No one else can! I don't belong to anyone and I am here to help everyone."

Moon replied, "Wow! I've never met anyone as unique as you! You are truly one of a kind. And I'm glad you saved me. My family and friends in the village will love you and be very grateful."

On the way to the village, the two talked about many things.

Chapter 2: My friend Bitcoin

Arriving in the village, Moon quickly ran to his stable, where his parents spent a sleepless night, worried and searching for him. A loud

"HEY MUM, DAD! I'm back!"

Surprised, tired but overjoyed, his parents ran to him and hugged him, the feeling of worry finally fading. Father Bull however turned a stern eye on Moon and asked "Where were you? We were very worried!"

Moon bowed his head in apology. "I was playing and got lost! But my new friend helped me get home!"

Father Bull was relieved that his son was back home and wanted to thank Moon's new friend for bringing him home. He asked Moon where his friend was so he could thank him.

Moon replied, "Well, he's here, standing next to me! Father, may I introduce my friend - Bitcoin, Bitcoin this is my FATHER."

Father Bull looked confused. He could see no one beside his son. There was no one there!

"But there's no one there, boy!
You must be exhausted and still in shock! Go and rest!"

Moon replied, "But Dad... can't you see him? He's standing right next to me!"

Father Bull raised his voice, "Don't talk back, Moon! Go to bed and rest!
I don't want to hear anything more about your imaginary friend!"

Moon went to his bed not understanding why his father could not see Bitcoin. After all, Bitcoin had saved him, his father should believe! Then he remembered, Bitcoin had explained it to Moon last night, only those who believed in him could see him. He was invisible to everyone else.

It suddenly made sense why Father Bull couldn't see Bitcoin! Moon thought his friends would surely believe him and then his father, after seeing how many of the children believed, would also believe in Bitcoin.

The next day Moon decided to tell his friends about his adventure. His friends were so happy to see Moon because, after having heard from his parents the day before that he was missing, they thought he was lost. Moon told everyone about his incredible story and tried to tell them of his friend Bitcoin! But none of his friends believed. No one believed he was saved by an invisible ghost.

Disappointed his friends didn't believe him, he wanted to be alone, so he went to an old lake behind the village. Bitcoin comforted Moon.

"Don't be sad Moon. They will believe one day. They will believe that I exist and that I saved your life," said Bitcoin.

Moon replied, "But I don't understand, why did I see you from the first moment? I didn't even know you existed!"

Bitcoin explained, "You were in need and alone! Let's say you wished for help and when I showed up, you immediately believed in my help."

Moon was silent, lost in his thoughts, looking into the distance towards where the sun was slowly setting. The stars were coming out and the moon was shining brightly. It was a beautiful sight!

Moon asked Bitcoin, "Will you leave now?"

Bitcoin replied, "No! I will never leave you, we belong together forever! Our friendship will change the world! Just call me when you need me. I'll always be there for you! No matter where you are."

Hearing this, Moon was happy. However, he did not understand how they could change the world. It was getting late and it was time for him to go back home.

The next day Moon amused himself alone in the pasture because his friends thought he was crazy and were not willing to play with him. Then, strangers arrived in the village.

A big fat pig accompanied by a bear. The pig was as big as the bear! Moon had never seen a pig like that before! They asked Moon for directions to the owl, the current mayor of the village.

Moon told them where to go, but immediately regretted it, because he had a bad feeling about these two! The two seemed very rude and did not even thank him for the information.

Interested in what the two wanted from the mayor, Moon decided to follow them secretly. At the window, Moon secretly listened to the conversation of the three. They wanted to buy the village and build casinos, banks and factories. This investment would be good for the whole village because they could earn a lot of money. Everyone would have a job and would be able to afford much more. Moon did not understand much of their conversation! But he did understand that his beloved village would not be the same if the mayor agreed.

The mayor said, "Thank you for the offer! But the village remains as it is. We are happy with what we have. We wouldn't sell our village for all the money in the world and turn it into a place of grey concrete."

Moon was glad that the mayor had turned down the offer. The pig and the bear were very angry. They threatened the mayor that if she did not accept their offer, they would come back and make trouble!

The mayor was not intimidated and sent them away. On the way back, the two of them went on a rampage and broke a few things out of anger. 'Such ill-bred hooligans!' thought Moon.

Moon ran to his friends and wanted to tell them what he had just heard. His friends laughed at him again.

"Yeah, sure, a pig as big as a bear. And they want to tear down everything here. Your stories are getting better and better," Rocky the dog replied.

And everyone laughed out loud again. Again, no one believed him! Moon was sad that his friends called him a liar. He didn't want to go to his parents either, because his dad would surely ground him again. But he had Bitcoin! He would surely believe him! He called his name and Bitcoin appeared.

"Hello Bitcoin, I have something to tell you," Moon said.

Tensely, Bitcoin listened to Moon's story.

"Hmm, that's not good. Those two will definitely come back," said Bitcoin.

"You think so? But what should we do?" asked Moon in an uncertain voice.

"Right now, there's nothing we can do! We have to wait and react when the time comes," Bitcoin replied.

Bitcoin realized that it was time to tell Moon about his past, "Moon, you know who I am. But you never asked me where I came from. Do you want to know?" Moon eagerly said yes and Bitcoin started his story.

"My Creator made me because he saw that great and powerful forces want to oppress the world. Everything revolves around money and power.

Those who have money and power have an advantage over those who don't have any.
Do you understand?

The world has changed and many have to give up their freedom and make room for the few in the world who have everything and want even more.

This fundamental thought sparked my creation. My creator brought me to life so I could bring back balance into the world I must restore freedom to all living beings, oppressed by these great powers.

The pig and the bear are just underlings of the powerful. They try to take over villages enslaving all the inhabitants.

At first, they promise that everything will be better if you trust them. But it gets worse as the years go by, until it is too late and you are trapped."

Moon nodded and asked Bitcoin what he could do to stop this from happening to the village he loved. Bitcoin replied, "I'm still small and vulnerable at the moment I can't do much against the big guys alone. But with your help, we can do it together."

Days passed and nothing exciting happened.

Moon pondered what Bitcoin had told him and wondered how he could help his village. After all, this was about his village, his friends, and his family.

Chapter 3: FED Piggy and Bloody Bear

One day, the pig and the bear showed up again! But this time they were not alone... They had a whole army with them. They all came with heavy machinery. They had come again! And this time not to talk. Just as they had announced.

The villagers saw the horde and were very worried. 'What are they going to do with the machines?' the inhabitants asked themselves. Through a megaphone, the pig spoke to the villagers.

"I am FED Piggy! I own almost everything in the world and I'm taking your village now. I advise you not to resist. And you can then work for me. Anyone who resists will be locked up. Be good and surrender. Anyone who wants to work for me, come to me now."

It quickly became clear how serious the situation was and that an attack on the village was imminent! The inhabitants were in great danger. But no one was prepared for such a thing. The residents had to act quickly. Everyone armed themselves with whatever they had at hand. No one wanted to surrender without a fight.

FED Piggy waited a bit and realized that no one would surrender without a fight.

The attack on the village started! Following General Bloody Bear's orders, armed bear soldiers, followed by large battle machines, stormed the village! The residents screamed and fought bravely against the bear soldiers of FED Piggy and General Bloody Bear! Some residents threw stones at the machines. Others fought back with sticks, pitchforks and shovels.

A hopeless fight against such a great and powerful opponent.

Father Bull told little Moon to hide, not to be afraid and that everything will be alright. Moon ran back to the barn and hid under the hay, but was just able to follow what was happening outside.

Father Bull used his physical strength. He was strong and could fight some of the machines and opponents off. Moon had never seen his father like this! He was really proud to have a father such as him.

Bloody Bear noticed that his attack strategy was faltering where Father Bull fought, ramming everyone in his path with his strength.

Bloody Bear ordered his bear soldiers away from Father Bull and to focus on the villagers. He told his troops to bring them under control for good. He would take on Father Bull himself.

Father Bull fought with all his strength and noticed how the bear soldiers turned away from him.

Exhausted but confused, he waited to see what would happen next. In the distance, something big moved towards him. It was Bloody Bear! Father Bull prepared for an attack and positioned himself to fend it off.

Bloody Bear was running so fast that a gigantic shock wave was created when he crashed into Father Bull! But Father Bull resisted the attack. Everyone involved caught their breath when they heard the bang and were caught in the blast wave.

It was unbelievable that Father Bull was still standing on his feet after such an attack. This gave courage to all the villagers. And they fought even more vigorously than before.

Bloody Bear said to Father Bull, "You are a strong Bull! I did not expect that. But you won't survive the second attack!"

Father Bull was already battered and trying to gather his last reserves of energy to stand up to Bloody Bear. While Bloody Bear was preparing for the second attack, Father Bull once more took a defensive stance. Suddenly, Father Bull felt a noose tighten around his neck.

FED Piggy had thrown a lasso at Father Bull from behind. Ambushed! Bloody Bear quickly went on the attack and knocked down Father Bull!

Moon had seen all this and jumped up to go help his father. At that moment Bitcoin appeared and prevented him from doing so.

Bitcoin said, "Moon, you can't go there! They will capture you too! We have to get out into the forest."

Moon replied, "But I can't leave my dad alone. I have to help him! Why doesn't anyone help him!"

Bitcoin said, "No, Moon! We can't stay here any longer. We have to leave. I promise you that you will see your dad and everyone else again. But you have to trust me. Come now before it's too late."

Moon decided to trust Bitcoin, after all, he had saved him, he was his friend who was always there for him with tears in his eyes, he left his village and ran towards the forest.

He took one last look back. The whole village was on fire and it looked very bad. Moon ran as fast as he could, but he didn't know exactly where to go.

Bitcoin was his guide. They went deep into the forest. Moon was already exhausted and could go on no longer! He was slowly losing strength and confidence in his friend. 'Where was he running to?' he asked himself. He began to doubt, the guilt of leaving his family and friend weighing heavily upon him. The poor were now prisoners of FED Piggy and Bloody Bear. He should have fought like everyone else.

He felt like a coward. And Bitcoin was also very quiet. Moon stopped, he could not go any further and lay down!

Bitcoin turned around and asked, "Moon, why did you lie down? We have to move on!"

Moon replied, "I'm not taking another step! We've been walking through the forest for days and I don't even know where we're going! I'm tired, hungry and I want to go back! I want to go to my family, even if I have to live in captivity."

Bitcoin sat down next to Moon and said,

"Ah Moon, I know it's not easy for you right now. It seems like everything is hopeless. You are far away from home. You don't know what happened to your friends and family. It can all be very scary. But it would be much more frightening if you had been captured. Trust me and you will see your family again! You just have to believe in me!"

Moon replied, "I do, or I wouldn't be able to see you!"

Bitcoin smiled, "Believing in me is one thing, trusting me is another. Do you trust me?"

Moon nodded his head and replied, "Yes, I trust you!"

"Ok Moon, then we'll rest now. And tomorrow we will go on! We'll reach our destination soon!" Bitcoin said happily.

They stopped for rest on the mountain where they could see over the forest. The village was no longer visible. But a bright spot in the middle of the forest was visible. 'Was this the place Bitcoin was taking him to' Moon wondered. The night was quite and the stars were out in the sky.

Moon asked Bitcoin, "What is this place we're going to?"

Bitcoin replied, "Bloody Bear and FED Piggy have already destroyed many villages and there are others who have lost their family and friends. I have brought you all to one place."

Moon was surprised. "Do you mean that others can see you, too?"

"Yes, Moon! There are others who can see me!"

The next morning, Moon was excited to meet the others. When he opened his eyes, Bitcoin was already ready to go.

"Tell me Bitcoin, have you not slept at all?" asked Moon.

"No, Moon! I never sleep and I am always there for you!"

"You really are fascinating, Bitcoin," Moon replied, "But come on now, I want to meet the others and tell them what happened to us. Which way do we have to go?"

Bitcoin nodded and steered him in the right direction. "That's the way to go, follow me! We're almost there."

Chapter 4: The new world

While walking through the dense forest, they came to a place where the forest was so overgrown and dense that it was impossible to walk through.

Looking at a wall of thorny brush and branches Moon asked Bitcoin, "We're not getting anywhere. What now?"

"Don't worry!" replied Bitcoin. "The forest will clear a path for us when we speak the magic words."

"Magic words?" asked Moon in surprise.

"Yes, Moon, this is a protected area. We can only get in by speaking the magic words. The act of speaking the magic words, To Seed, will grant us passage. I'll whisper the words to the forest and that's how we'll be allowed to enter," Bitcoin said.

Moon was really impressed when Bitcoin whispered the magic words and the forest cleared a way through the undergrowth. A tunnel opened up as if by magic. Bitcoin went through first and Moon followed him carefully.

As the two were walking through the tunnel, Moon glanced back noticing that the entrance was slowly closing behind them.

Moon asked, "What is this place?"

Bitcoin replied, "You'll see soon enough, Moon! This is just the beginning!"

The two saw a bright light at the end of the tunnel. Each step brought them closer to the end of the tunnel and by the time they reached it Moon was speechless. For the first time Moon saw the mysterious place Bitcoin had been talking about all along.

It was a new world where the laws of nature were different from those in the outside world. It was as if he were in heaven. There were mountains, rivers, lakes as far as the eye could see and many, many smaller towns. But they were floating in the air connected by hanging bridges made of strong chains.

Moon was impressed and astounded exclaiming, "Wow, Bitcoin! What a beautiful sight!"

Bitcoin smiled and said, "Moon, this world is different from the world where we come from in many ways. Here, everyone lives free and there is nothing evil here."

"Hmm, you mean like my village, except there's no one to destroy it?" inquired Moon.

"Yes, that's right! And if someone even thought about destroying everything, then everyone in this world would stop that thought or action immediately. We are all connected to each other here and the principle - One for all and all for one" truly applies.

"A true democracy, no one is excluded here, everyone is allowed to be a member,"

Bitcoin replied.

Moon marvelled, "Not bad!"

"Come on now! Let's meet the others!" Bitcoin said to Moon.

Moon looked at everything carefully. It was a fantastic world and everyone was happy, nice and content. He remembered his family and friends and became thoughtful. I wonder how they are doing, he wondered. But he would have to trust Bitcoin, he had promised to trust him.

After a long walk through the new world, they reached the place Bitcoin had been talking about. It was a very inconspicuous spot, but this place exuded an incredible energy. In this place, Moon was no longer hungry or tired. From one second to the next, he was full of energy.

Moon did not understand what had just happened to him, but he found it pleasant.

At a tree, the two stopped and Bitcoin raised his voice and called out "HODL".

Whatever that meant. The call was apparently answered by some of the local inhabitants, who were approaching. They were all bulls! Just like Moon. Some smaller and some bigger.

Moon was happy to see so many of his kind. Everyone believed in Bitcoin and could see him. Moon suddenly had allies. The new arrivals asked Moon where he came from and how he learned about Bitcoin. Moon told his story while the others listened. The more Moon spoke, the more he felt a connection to his new friends. No one laughed at him and everyone believed his story.

HODL

They told Moon, "You're a part of us and we're not going to let you down!"

Bitcoin interjected, "Moon, you have just become a part of this world and absorbed it's full power. Can you feel yourself getting better yet?"

Moon replied, "Yes, I have been stronger and happier ever since we arrived here!"

"That's the advantage of this world. You always get stronger,"

Bitcoin replied.

It dawned on Moon why Bitcoin wanted him to come here. He wanted Moon to become stronger. Bitcoin asked Moon if he would be willing to stay and train. Moon nodded and agreed to do so.

Four years passed, and Moon spent the time training in this new world.

Moon had grown bigger and stronger during his time in this new world turning into a magnificent creature. He felt ready to go back to his village and rescue his family and friends.

One day he called his new friends and told them that he was going to go back to his village and save everyone. The others however didn't think that was a good idea. They said he would have to become much stronger.

Moon did not understand the reaction of his new friends. He had trained so hard the last few years. He was now almost as big as his father. He was ready!

He wanted to demonstrate this to his friends and to show them how strong he was attacked a big rock.

Moon charged the rock and drilled his horns into it, lifting the rock as if it weighed no more than a feather. He flung the rock into the air, and a short time later it landed with a thud. His friends were amazed when they saw this demonstration. They were amazed by the progress Moon had shown. He had really developed enormously.

It seemed that little timid Moon had grown into a confident, strong bull nothing could stop from returning to his village. His friends tried to talk some sense into him, saying that strength alone was not the deciding factor. It took much more to win a fight.

Moon was defiant and did not wish to listen to his friends! He was confident that he could save his family and friends.

Moon's reaction to his friends objections was to say, "I thought the guiding principle here was one for all, all for one! Why won't you help me?"

His friends looked at him thoughtfully and remained silent, "Just as I thought, it's all hot air! I don't need you! I'm going alone!" and with that Moon turned and started to leave.

His friends still tried to dissuade him by shouting for him to be patient and that his time would come. But Moon was impatient, he didn't want to wait any longer. He knew that if he let Bitcoin in on his plan, he would hold him back with all his might. He couldn't risk that. So Moon set out on his own - without saying goodbye to Bitcoin.

Chapter 5: The rescue attempt

On his way back to the village, Moon arrived at the wall that still separated the two worlds. The undergrowth opened revealing the world beyond, no magic words needed to be said. Apparently, it was difficult to get in, but you could always get out!

Moon himself didn't know the magic words. He knew that if he went out now, he would never be able to come back in. He hadn't told his friend Bitcoin of his plans. He was on his own now.

Moon rushed through the opening and ran through the forest like a mad bull. He was as fast as the wind raising a huge cloud of dust in his wake. Within a day, he was in front of his village just as dusk was falling.

He looked down from a hill towards his village, it had changed a lot in 4 years. A strange black mist enveloped the village.

Cautiously Moon walked towards his old home. The beautiful village, which used to be inhabited by lively folk, had become a desolate place.

Moon crept through the streets looking at kennels full of animals, most were sick. Some of the animals even had to operate the heavy machinery. He had to be careful, soldiers still patrolled the village, soldiers wearing the uniform of Bloody Bear. It seemed as if the village had become a slave camp. There was nothing left of freedom and happiness.

Moon decided to continue on to his old stable searching for his friends and family. On the way to the stable he recognized an old friend in one of the cages. It was Rocky, the farm's guard dog. He seemed defeated, head hanging low with profound sadness.

Moon whispered to him softly, "Rocky! Hey Rocky... It's Moon! What happened here?"

Rocky raised his head with a look of confusion and puzzlement. "Moon!?! Is it really you?" he whispered back in a voice growing with excitement and hope.

"Yes, it's me! What the hell happened here? Is my family safe?"

Rocky couldn't believe it, his tail started to wag uncertainly but gathered speed as he continued to talk, hope and happiness rising.

"Oh, Moon I am so happy to see you. And you're alive! We all thought you were...well you know. Look at you! You've gotten so big."

"Yeah, yeah, Rocky... I'm glad to see you too! Please tell me my family is ok!"

Rocky excitedly set Moon's fears to rest, "Yes, Moon! They are doing well. Well... as well as they can be considering what has befallen us the last couple of years. Those evil creatures, FED Piggy and Bloody Bear broke everything and just built machines to exploit our land and make money for themselves. No one is free anymore. Everyone has to do what they say and everything has been taken away from us."

Moon listened to this with great sadness, finally saying, "I have come to save you. I will rescue all of you. Show me the way to my parents and I will come back and rescue all of you!"

Rocky was glad to hear Moon say these things, he was looking forward to his freedom again.

He pointed to a mine behind the village and told Moon, "Go there and you will find your parents. They are forced to work all day, with no rest, but be careful, everything is strictly supervised,"

Moon nodded, thanking Rocky and promising to come back. He cautiously but with growing determination crept towards the mine, already planning how to rescue his parents.

The mine was guarded by a large group of soldiers, they were tasked with making sure no one escaped. It seemed that everyone who was not in the kennels and cages worked at the mine. They were hauling heavy stones out of the mine on freight cars. The freight cars moved in and out at a brisk pace.

From his vantage point Moon watched what was happening for a while. Unfortunately, he did not see his parents.

'Could Rocky have been mistaken' he wondered. As he contemplated the question, he suddenly caught sight of his parents. His father was pulling a freight wagon filled with heavy stones and his mother was tipping the transport wagon to unload the stones into a pit.

Moon did not hesitate for a second. He rose and charged toward the mine and his parents! Moon flung himself at the surprised guards and attacked them. The guards were caught completely by surprise. Hurling the guards away as if they were made of straw Moon

He shouted, "MUMMY, DADDY! I've come to set you free!"

Father Bull didn't even recognize the young bull at first. But his Mother burst into tears when she saw Moon. She had recognized her son instantly.

His Mom called out to him, "Moon, you're alive, but that can't be! How is this possible?"

"I'll tell you everything later." He answered, continuing with, "I'll rescue you now and then we'll free the others and get out of here."

Father Bull was happy to see Moon alive, but perplexed by Moon's plan. He said, "Son, we have no chance to save everyone and get out of here. Bloody Bear's troops are everywhere."

We are too weak to fight so we must run away."

Moon tried to explain forcefully, "Dad, I am very strong and I will get you out of here! Trust me. We have to go now!"

Moon broke the chains keeping his parents shackled and told his parents to follow him. Moon wanted to rescue Rocky first, to keep his promise. They made their way from the mine to Rocky's cage. Returning to Rocky's cage, Moon bent the cage bars with his horns so Rocky could squeeze out. Rocky was so happy to be free again, wagging his tail and jumping around, making more noise than he should have.

Moon had to rein Rocky in, "Calm down or we'll attract attention! Where are the others?" asked Moon.

Rocky realized the seriousness of the situation and calmed down. He said that the others were in a building in the village and it would be impossible to rescue them all without attracting attention.

"You will have a hard time rescuing everyone. You have to watch out for a painted sign. One large word dominates the sign "BANK". This same sign marked everyone from the village. This is so the soldiers would know who the slaves are in this village," Rocky explained.

Moon thought about his options. He told his parents and the newly rescued Rocky to wait for him at the stable. He would go and mobilize everyone, and bring them to the stable. His parents and Rocky sped away towards the barn to hold down the fort. Moon looked back again once towards where his parents had disappeared, taking deep breaths to calm himself he ventured further into the centre of the village to rescue everyone.

The closer he got to the centre, the gloomier it became. Wherever he looked, the houses had broken windows. Where once the houses were vibrant and decorated by flowers, now were broken ruins. Moon searched for the sign that would tell him where his friends were, and quickly found it.

The house was guarded by more soldiers. Terrible shouting could be heard from inside. Moon wondered what was going on in there. Determined to find out, he gritted his teeth and prepared to give everything he had to get his friends out of there. Moon hunched his shoulders, lowering his head in his attack stance, scraped at the ground with his hoof, and went on the attack.

Like a steam engine, he charged at the guards, who were absolutely unaware and surprised by the attack. He hurled the guards through the air as if they were rag dolls, just like before.

A small fat soldier was so afraid that he did not dare attack Moon. Instead, he just turned around and ran away. Moon looked around. All the soldiers were on the floor, unconscious. The coast was clear and Moon ran into the building where his friends were.

He found lots of cages inside. He knew immediately that this was not a nice place. Anyone who came into this building lost his soul piece by piece. Acting quickly, he tried to break open the cages with his horns. Moon's horns were strong and the cage bars were like butter. Moon effortlessly deformed the cages to get his friends out. None of his friends recognized him. None thought that Moon was still alive.

But when Moon spoke to them, they recognized their long-lost friend and hugged him. "My dear friends, I am so happy to see you all! I wish I had come back sooner. You must have been through some bad stuff."

Moon told them that they should leave quickly, first to the stable, to collect his family and then onward to the safety of the forest "Follow me!" He cried, but did not get far, as soldiers had already gathered to catch him as they all came outside.

"Where did they come from?"

Moon wondered. He had let the little fat soldier go, after all. "He must have called for reinforcements," he thought to himself.

The soldiers surrounding the fugitives hid behind large shields. Moon cautioned to stay behind him. He would take care of the soldiers. He lowered his head again and focused his gaze. He was focused and ready for the attack. He cautiously watched the soldiers' movements and looked for a weak spot in their formation. He quickly discovered that the legs of the little fat soldier were trembling with fear. He had found the weak point, and attacked the weakest link in the chain. Moon started to attack and focused on the small soldier. With one thrust, he broke the formation of the bear soldiers and was able to attack all of them from behind.

Moon raged and showed his power to everyone. The soldiers just flew through the air. His friends were amazed at Moon's power. And they were glad that he had come to rescue them. In the middle of the fight Moon told his friends with a loud voice to run to the stable. His friends did not hesitate for a second and made their way there.

Moon still intended to put the rest of the soldiers out of action so that they would not pose any further danger to his friends and could not fetch any more help. While the friends were running to the stable, Moon still fought against the remaining soldiers.

Every time he thought he had finished off all the soldiers, new ones kept coming from every corner. A new strategy had to be found, and Moon decided to carry out a deception manoeuvre. He looked at the church and its bell tower. If he managed to bring down the bell tower, the bell would fall to the ground making such a loud noise that it would disorientate the soldiers for a moment and Moon could make a run for it.

Moon looked around and discovered a large maple tree. This tree was where village Meetings used to take place. It was chosen for this purpose because it had provided much shade in the summer and was fragrant in the spring. This time the tree would save its villagers.

Moon took a running start and ran towards the maple tree, where he pierced the tree with all the strength in his horns. He lifted the tree, turned, and ran towards the bell tower with the tree on his horns.

Anyone who got in his way was literally knocked down by the tree trunk. With a mighty push against the bell tower, he made the tower shake. Moon took a few more steps back and hurled the log at the bell tower and it didn't take long for the tower to collapse.

The bell crashed to the ground and it made a loud bang. The sound of the bell was so loud that all the soldiers covered their ears in pain and fell to the ground. Moon took the chance to escape and ran towards the stable. His friends and parents were already there when Moon came running. It quickly became clear that they all had to flee the village quickly before the soldiers arrived.

Moon told everyone to flee towards the forest, he would take them to a safe place. No sooner did he utter the words than a large stone fell in the middle of the stable, destroying it completely.

ROARRR!!!

Everyone froze in shock! It was Bloody Bear who had thrown the stone. Bloody Bear roared so loudly that the earth shook. They had never seen him so angry.

But Moon was not afraid. He would get even with Bloody Bear. He was convinced of that. Moon shouted to his parents and friends to run away and seek shelter in the forest. They all ran. The soldiers had anticipated what they would do and were waiting for them just beyond the forest line.

Moon couldn't believe how tough these soldiers were. "Hang in there, friends!"

He had to take care of Bloody Bear and then he would go after the soldiers.

Bloody Bear stamped his front legs on the ground and went on the attack. He charged at Moon and was about to knock him down. Moon dug his hooves into the ground and prepared to counter attack, lowering his head and positioning his horns. Bloody Bear leapt into the air and stretched out his arms, spreading his claws and trying to grab Moon. Moon dodged and tried to counterattack with his horns. However, Bloody Bear was not only strong, but also really fast. Bloody Bear grabbed Moon's horns, lifted him out and tossed him aside. It was an even fight. Equally matched, neither of them made a mistake. The fight was spectacular.

Slowly the youth of Moon proved to be an advantage, it was helping him gain the upper hand in the fight. Bloody Bear ordered his soldiers to join the fight and the soldiers obeyed. The soldiers threw stones at Moon and tried to capture him with lassos. Moon now had to fight on two sides. They were all so concentrated on Moon that the others were forgotten. They took the opportunity to escape into the forest.

However, Moon was now in trouble! He was strong and fast. But there were just too many of them rushing at him. The soldiers managed to catch Moon with ropes and restrain him. He was held fast, so that Bloody Bear could finish him off with a well-placed strike. Moon was on the ground now, more and more ropes were being wrapped around his neck, horns and legs! He gasped and tried to free himself. But he was caught fast. Bloody Bear slowly approached, gloating.

He raised his paw to strike the final blow when Father Bull charged into them like a steamroller, ramming all the soldiers away like skittles and knocking Bloody Bear so hard that he flew several feet before crashing to the ground.

"Moon, get up and flee, save everyone, you are their last hope! Run my son!" shouted his Father.

Moon knew that if he ran away now, his dad would not make it past Bloody Bear and the soldiers. Slowly, he got up to stand by his father's side.

"Moon, what are you doing? Run away and take care of the others! They can't do it without you. I'll keep Bloody Bear in check!" his father said to him.

"Dad? I..." Moon sobbed in a low voice. His father interrupted him and shouted at him.

"Are you hard of hearing! Run now, or do you want the others to be captured again? Your old Dad can handle it!" He smiled at Moon.

Moon knew that his father was lying to him. He couldn't fight them all alone. He wasn't as strong as he used to be. But he was right: he had to get the others to safety.

With tears in his eyes Moon said, "Goodbye, Dad."

His father replied, "Take care of the others, my son. Now go!"

Moon turned and set off at a sprint. He followed the tracks that the others had left for him. He could still hear the fight in the village, Father Bull was giving it his all, until suddenly, silence reigned.

Chapter 6: The forest

The trail slowly disappeared inside the forest. Moon called out to his friends but was met with silence. He went deeper remembering his first visit. The forest was very dense and Moon quickly lost his bearings. The same thing had happened the last time.

If it hadn't been for his friend Bitcoin back then, Moon would probably be dead now. Back then it was hard to imagine how everything would have turned out.

Moon had to somehow draw attention to himself in order to find the others. It occurred to him that Rocky the guard dog had a pretty fine nose. He would just have to drop something of his on the ground and leave a trail. If Rocky noticed the scent, he would find him quickly. Leaving a trail of rope for Rocky to follow Moon tracked towards the cave where he took shelter last time.

The weather didn't look so good, if a storm came, their tracks would be obscured. Moon hoped that Rocky would find his tracks before that happened. Moon slowly moved towards the cave, always leaving a piece of the rope on the ground.

Arriving at the cave, he looked over the forest, hoping to see something. He couldn't even see the village, which was enclosed by a dark mist.

It was frightening to see how everything had turned out. Moon wondered why FED Piggy and Bloody Bear were doing this. Raiding villages and enslaving everyone. Just because they wanted more and more money. Freedom, family and friends are worth much more. He just didn't understand.

Moon lay down to rest a bit and looked over the forest. He waited patiently for his friends at the cave. Some time passed and he saw dark clouds moving over the horizon. Something was brewing. Moon did not suspect anything good. The storms could be very strong and dangerous in this area of the forest.

"Where the heck are my friends?" wondered Moon.

The storm was getting closer and the wind was moving the trees back and forth. Some trees swayed so much that they whipped against the stone of the cave entrance. Moon could hear the raindrops drumming against the leaves. It was getting uncomfortable and his friends were still out there.

Moon closed his eyes and pricked up his ears. He tried to filter out the sounds of the storm and concentrate only on possible voices. It was difficult however because the storm was growing more powerful. Suddenly Moon heard a voice calling for help.

"That should be them," he thought.

He tried to pinpoint which direction the cries for help were coming from. It had to come from the pit where he had fallen in when he was little. Moon ran down the cliff to the pit. As he got closer the cries for help got louder.

Moon knew he was on the right track and hurried. At this point the storm was so strong that it tore trees out of the ground. They made it difficult for Moon to get to the pit, but he was agile. He was ready to give everything for his friends. He approached the pit and there was already a lot of water flowing into it. Moon had to act quickly if he wanted to rescue his friends.

Arriving at the pit, he saw his friends down in the water. He had to get them all out of there as quickly as possible. He thought quickly and making his mind up ran to one of the many tree trunks that littered the floor of the forest, he drilled his horns into it and dragged it back towards the pit to throw it down so that everyone could climb out.

The water level of the pit was rising quickly and some of his friends could not climb up the tree trunk because they were just too weak. Moon had to get them out of there. He told them to hold on to the tree trunk so he could pull it out of the pit with them.

Having gotten the tree out of the pit, he looked over his friends and asked if everyone was accounted for. Fortunately, everyone had managed to get out. But he noticed that his mother was not there.

"Where is my mother?" asked Moon.

Rocky answered, "She ran back to the village because she didn't want to leave you alone in the village. We couldn't stop her!"

Moon lowered his head and stifled his tears. He had to be strong now and be an example to his friends.

"Please, everyone, follow me, we need to go to the cave for shelter from the storm." The storm was still growing in intensity as they reached the cave, for the time being they would be safe here.

The storm passed by the morning and the sun emerged from the horizon above the tree line of the forest, everything was peaceful again. Moon and his friends had weathered the storm. Moon looked at his friends, glad to see everyone safe.

"How are you guys doing?" he asked the group.

His friends looked at him wide-eyed. They had so many questions for him, but answered with a chorus of nods and "We're fines!"

Rocky spoke up, "I spotted your trail and followed it! But the storm had caught us by surprise and we got lost and fell into the pit. You saved us a second time."

All his friends regarded Moon with gratitude. They started asking him of his life, where he had been all this time and what he had been doing?

Moon told them his story, how he had escaped to the forest with Bitcoin and lived in another world, trained and grew up there. He painted a picture of the other world in their minds and told them how peaceful everything was there. And he spoke of the inhabitants, saying there were many of them who experienced the same fate as they did, who had been driven from their homes by FED Piggy and Bloody Bear. All of them lived there in a safe place where everything was fair and an incredible positive energy enveloped the world.

Everyone listened to him intently. No one mocked him or called him a liar. Rocky asked,

"This friend of yours, Bitcoin, you told me about him back then. Where is he now?"

Moon answered, "He's still in the other world, he doesn't know I've gone! He wanted me to wait longer before coming to help. But I couldn't wait any longer! And now my parents have probably been captured and are enslaved again!"

His friends replied, "But you don't know that! And besides, you saved us all. We all owe you a debt of gratitude."

Moon thanked them for their comforting words and quickly explained that they all had to follow him to the secret gateway between worlds.

When they arrived at the wall of thorns, some of the group spoke up with disappointment and confusion, "We can't go any further. Are you sure this is the right way?"

Moon replied, "Yes, I'm sure this is the right way. Behind this shrub is the new world I told you about."

The group wasn't convinced, how were they supposed to go through a wall of thorns? The undergrowth was so dense that a beetle couldn't get through.

Moon told them that they needed a Seed, a magic word or phrase in order for the tunnel to open. "And do you know a Seed?"

asked his friends. Moon stood there ashamed and mumbled, "I'm sorry I don't know any Seeds, Bitcoin whispered it last time!"

That admonition was the last thing his friends wanted to hear. They were exhausted, frightened and in the middle of nowhere. They began to have doubts again, about the plan and about Moon.

Staring at the wall Moon remembered Bitcoin's words to him, that he would be there for him whenever he needed it. All he had to do was call him. Moon looked up at the sky and called Bitcoin's name in a loud, strong voice.

Everyone looked at Moon curious to see what would happen. But nothing happened. And disappointment was written clearly on his friends' faces. They were not angry with him; he had saved them after all.

Suddenly they heard a voice out of nowhere say:

"Moon, where have you been, why are you out there? Who are all these others?"

Bitcoin had come, as he said he would!

Moon was happy to see Bitcoin again. He was not sure what he would have done had Bitcoin not answered his call. To his astonishment, his friends started to make a fuss, gasped, surprise and astonishment clear in their voices.

Moon looked at them asking, "What's wrong? You sound like you've seen a ghost!"

They could suddenly see Bitcoin, he had been there beside them all along. Everyone was so excited, they couldn't believe it. All these years they hadn't believed Moon, and now there was a ghost standing right in front of them.

Rocky was the first to speak up, saying, "Moon I see your friend Bitcoin!" It was as if had opened, others spoke up as well. "So do we, Moon, we see your friend!"

Moon was happy, he asked "Why can you see him all of a sudden?" Everyone shrugged while Bitcoin explained, "Because they believe in you, Moon and they believe your story! Thus, they also believe in me and can see me! This is wonderful, the more who believe in me, the stronger our world becomes and the stronger we all become."

He continued, "I suppose you all wish to enter our world? Very well! I'll recite the Seed quickly, all of the 24 magic symbols and then quickly get you inside. It's finally time to fight back, the reign of terror conducted by FED Piggy and Bloody Bear is about to end for good."

Chapter 7: A strong bond of friendship

Moon's friends were amazed when they strolled through the new world. It was even more fascinating than Moon had told them. Everyone lived peacefully and was happy. Every new arrival could feel this new world fill them with energy, helping everyone regain their strength.

Moon explained the rules of this new world to his friends. Everyone looks out for each other and everything is distributed fairly. Each individual is important for the preservation of this world. And now his friends also became a part of this world.

Bitcoin shouted, "HODL!" All the inhabitants of this world gathered at the call to welcome the new arrivals.

"HODL, what does it mean?" asked one of the group.

Bitcoin explained that it means cohesion: "As long as you belong to us and don't turn away, you will always be a part of this world and enjoy the benefits."

Moon explained that everyone in this world is HODLER. "We were all attacked and driven out by FED Piggy and Bloody Bear. Bitcoin saved us. In the beginning, there were very few here. But as time went by, more and more people joined us here, and stronger each one of us became. We form a community and always stick together. That is our super power!"

Moon's friends were amazed and very happy to have become a part of this world now. They all thanked him for bringing them here. Moon told his friends to take a rest and let everything sink in. He had to talk to Bitcoin alone.

Moon and Bitcoin withdrew and conferred on how to proceed. Moon related to his friend the situation in the village and how terrible it was there. He had missed his parents and friends and wanted to rescue everyone. But the rescue didn't go as planned and now he didn't know what happened to his parents. He asked Bitcoin for help. Moon just wanted to end the whole thing. But he should have listened to Bitcoin, because then his parents would not be lost now.

Bitcoin listened to Moon's story and decided to make a plan of action by tomorrow. He told Moon to go to the others and rest. Moon's intentions were pure and selfless, and though it was unfortunate that his plan fell through, he still managed to save many of his friends.

Everyone rested and enjoyed this peace that they had not had for so long.

By the next morning, Bitcoin had come up with a plan of action. He came and gathered all the inhabitants of the new world. He told them of his plan, to reCaptcha Moon's village with united force. Moon had managed, through his courageous action of the day before, to convince everyone that there was hope.

Bitcoin said, "Together we are strong because each of us trusts the other. If we form a common chain so strong that it can't be broken, then we can defeat FED Piggy and Bloody Bear!"

Moon spoke up and said that the soldiers also formed a kind of chain when they attacked him in the village. But that he had attacked the weakest point of the chain and was able to break through it.

Moon asked Bitcoin: "What if they find such a vulnerability in us, too?"

Bitcoin replied that their chain will not have a weak point, "Because if one of us weakens, the others will see it and strengthen the weak point. We are all connected through this world! That is our super power! We are connected with each other with bonds they cannot break. Weak points are immediately supplemented and strengthened by others."

Moon thought about the invisible energy connecting them all, seeing it in his mind. A weakening link in the chain being strengthened by his neighbour almost instantaneously. A solution that draws only as much energy as is necessary to keep the chain defended and stable.

"That's genius!" exclaimed Moon. "A single strong unit that is actually distributed evenly and only works in community."

Everyone agreed it was a good plan and shouts arose wanting to know, "When is it finally going to start? We finally want to get back at the bad guys! And we want our lives and our homes back!"

Bitcoin calmed the group down and suggested they march towards the village in the morning. They could make the distance in one day, because they had a lot of energy bundled as a team. Towards evening they would be in front of the village and could carry out a surprise attack under the cover of darkness.

Excitedly, everyone agreed to Bitcoin and Moon's plan. By dawn, they would all be ready. Moon moved away from the group to be alone that night. He wanted to mentally prepare himself for the fight. After all, he knew how strong Bloody Bear was and that it would not be easy to defeat him. Everyone was euphoric and that was a good thing. They had all been through a lot and now they finally had the opportunity to put an end to it.

Moon looked over the new world, so idyllic and peaceful. He wished at that moment to be with his parents, and began to worry.

Bitcoin joined Moon and they both looked at this world where everything was so peaceful.

"Soon your world will mirror this one, Moon! It won't be easy, but together we can do it," Moon looked at Bitcoin and nodded!

Moon knew that he could trust Bitcoin and that his friend would not let him down. The night grew quieter and quieter and everyone seemed to be asleep. Moon, however, was awake and felt a hint of change in the air. He was full of hope and confidence, he would defeat Bloody Bear and save his parents once more.

Chapter 8: The final battle

At dawn, everyone was rested and slowly gathered in one place ready to start the journey to the village. Moon asked everyone from his group to line up so that they could march to the village in order, without anyone getting lost. Moon had become a leader and they followed him at every turn.

Moon gave them directions and Bitcoin and all the Bitcoin HODLERS responded on the way to the village. They marched briskly and it actually took no more than a day for Moon and his friends to reach the village. Moon turned to his friends and asked them all to line up next to each other and form a chain.

He saw revolution, freedom and self-determination in the eyes of his friends, the hope for a better future.

Everyone was ready to give their best because they wanted it from the bottom of their hearts. Each individual knew exactly what to do. Everyone positioned themselves in a row and waited anxiously for Moon's command. Moon looked at the village and discovered some new guard posts. The soldiers had learned since last night's attack and had built watchtowers and reinforced everything.

Moon had expected that. He knew that it would not be easy. But this time he was not alone. Moon spoke to his group telling them that a few of them should slowly approach the village and neutralize the watchtowers, inconspicuously, if possible. Should the alarm be triggered, everyone would rush in and form the chain that Bitcoin had talked about. This way, their defence would be prepared immediately and everyone would be protected.

Moon picked out some of his friends because they knew how to best take out the watchtowers. Slowly they advanced through the tall grass towards the guards. The tactic was to shake the towers so hard that the guards would fall out and so will be unable to raise the alarm. The plan was carried out without incident, each guard fell out of his tower, until they reached the final one, no one fell out of the last tower. The guard had taken a break. When the guard returned, he spotted the intruders and shot up a flare. Within seconds, a loud alarm went off.

Moon called out to his friends, "We've been spotted, everyone stay together. We can do this!"

Cries of alarm grew louder and louder, sounds of boots stomping the ground could be heard gathering in the village. The soldiers of Bloody Bear assembling and coming closer to defend their positions. From his vantage Bitcoin had seen the flare as well and had given his group the command to rush to Moon's aid. Bloody Bear's soldiers assembled quickly preparing to attack Moon and his friends. But Bitcoin was already there with support. Immediately everyone took their positions and formed a defensive chain.

The two forces faced each other and waited to see what would happen next. Neither willing to start the confrontation in earnest. Of course, the alarm had also alerted Bloody Bear and it didn't take long for him to show up. Emerging from the crowd of his soldiers he positioned himself in front, standing up on his hind legs he let out a huge roar! Moon remembered hearing this roar in the forest when he was still small and had lost his way. Was it the same roar of his childhood? Bitcoin had mentioned then that there had been many more villages that had been attacked. Moon wondered at that moment how many villages were out there and needed help.

After the roar, the soldiers surged forward, towards Moon and his friends. Without hesitation, Moon and all the others charged to meet them. The crash of the two forces was gigantic. The battle was fought with iron discipline. The soldiers tried to break the chain formation of Moon and his friends. And you could see them searching for a weak spot. Every time they thought they would finally break through, two or three supporters would come and bolster the defence of the attacked link, successfully repelling each attack.

The liberators were successfully pushing the soldiers further and further back. Bloody Bear noticed that his soldiers were struggling and decided to intervene. He decided to focus on Moon entirely. He still had a score to settle with him.

Bloody Bear prepared to rush the chain formation and bulldoze Moon out of formation. Like a locomotive, Bloody Bear charged at Moon. He didn't care about his own soldiers, he rammed into everyone in his path and they flew through the air like cones. He had only one goal in front of his eyes and that was Moon.

Moon fought bravely against the soldiers and helped his friends keep formation, unaware that Bloody Bear was charging straight at him. At the last moment Moon saw Bloody Bear out of the corner of his eye and tried to dodge. But it was too late. Bloody Bear caught Moon with such force that Moon was thrown out of formation.

Bloody Bear's attack had not gone unnoticed and other bulls rushed at him. Bloody Bear was surrounded by the reprisal attack of the bulls who hammered him from every direction. Bloody Bear tried to dodge the blows, but didn't really succeed. He was in a bind. A loud horn could be heard in the distance. A huge powerful steam machine on wheels drove towards the group at a high speed. FED Piggy was steering the vehicle. He shouted loudly,

"Who do you think you are? Just showing up here and causing trouble! I'll flatten you all!"

The soldiers and everyone else had to dodge to avoid being run over by FED Piggy. They barely managed it. FED Piggy had no care for anyone. He did what he wanted, even if it hurt his own people. He drove towards Bloody Bear to help him.

In the meantime, Moon was able to pick himself up, the defence worked well and he was able to get some breathing room. He saw FED Piggy approaching in the distance and decided to bring the vehicle to a stop. Moon ran trying to cross FED Piggy's path.

FED Piggy was moving at such a speed that Moon was unable to cut across his path. He saw Bitcoin and shouted, "Help me!"

Bitcoin immediately realized what Moon was up to and flew to him! He spun on his own axis in the air, creating a whirlwind. Moon was caught by this whirlwind and was catapulted by it towards FED Piggy. Moon flew toward FED Piggy like a cannonball slamming into the vehicle and through it!

FED Piggy was thrown from the vehicle and landed on the ground. All eyes were on FED Piggy during this and Bloody Bear took advantage by retreating behind the protection of his soldiers.

FED Piggy lay wounded on the ground screaming at his soldiers to help him. But the soldiers didn't care. They had seen how FED Piggy had treated them and had no wish to help such a bully. Bloody Bear ordered his soldiers to help FED Piggy. But the soldiers also turned away from him. They did not want to serve him anymore. The soldiers realized that Moon and his friends were fighting for a just cause and that the time of Bloody Bear and FED Piggy had now come to an end.

Moon stood there and watched as the soldiers turned away from their leaders. Bloody Bear suddenly stood there defenceless. Alone, Bloody Bear could not take on all of them. But Bloody Bear did not accept defeat. He challenged Moon to a fight.

Moon walked toward Bloody Bear and said,

"I'm not going to fight you! I don't have to because you've already lost. Your soldiers don't trust you anymore and seem to have switched sides. You're finished!"

Bloody Bear roared and wanted to attack Moon, but the soldiers, Bitcoin and Moon's friends stood in his way. Bloody Bear and FED Piggy were dragged away and locked up where they could never hurt anyone again. Everyone involved went to the village and took it upon themselves to rebuild everything so that everything would be like it was before and maybe even better.

Moon searched for his parents and found them in the mine. They were very weak, but happy to see him. Moon was so happy when he found them that he ran to them and hugged them very tightly. Moon told them what had happened and that everything would get better.

Everyone was busy rebuilding the village, even the soldiers were helping. Bitcoin and Moon went to the old lake behind the village where the children used to play and looked out at the lake. Bitcoin told Moon that he had to leave because there are other villages and even towns that are still being oppressed. There are other bad guys like FED Piggy and Bloody Bear.

Moon thanked his friend for everything he had done for him. He wanted to stay here with his family and help with the rebuilding. And when everything was ready, he would fight with him at his side for a just world.

Bitcoin was pleased with Moon's offer and left with a smile on his face, knowing full well that Moon would be joining him again soon.

A friendship such as Bitcoin and Moon share will never end!

